

Assignment 3 File System
Group 17

Files edited: sfc.c block.c block.h

Design:

The file directory is a tree data structure, where each node is either a file or directory, identified by the path from the root. The root is the entry point of the file system.

If a node is a directory, it contains a list of all files in that directory.